A GYMNASIUM WILL—

Dear Mr. Editor: February third, in which you ask a few highly pertinent questions of the department of athletics and physical education of the Brigham Young University, let me just received the consideration of students, faculty and alumni of the institution.

Let me proceed immediately because it is a question that invites immediate and vigorous handling.

We cannot leave a call for track and field competitors in the conference because we have no place in which to conduct indoor training. We cannot arrange for a program of girls' indoor athletics because we have no place for such training and no facilities to carry on such work.

Let me proceed immediately because it is a question that invites immediate and vigorous handling.

What about our present gymnasium? Can it not be used for the above named purposes? No, because the gymnasium is either in use throughout the day and way into the night, or it is being used for other purposes. It is complicated to remain idle owing to the disturbance caused the training school classes conducted in the lower gym, when these exercises are in alive with activity.

therapy, scientific manner, and other medical measures designed to bring physical defects and underdeveloped students back to normal health.

Permit the school to carry on a full program of intra-mural sports, games, athletics, swimming, etc. in which the various classes, clubs, faculty organizations, and women's associations may meet each other in skillful competition.

4. Make possible a more satisfactory and complete social life in the university by furnishing social centers in which the various groups may gather together. At present the social life has a tendency to get off the campus, and in a short time it will probably be scattered throughout the entire country unless a new gymnasium building, with its club rooms, dance studios, lobby, etc. be furnished this fast-growing University.

5. Furnish the athletic department to stage its great indoor-collegiate basketball contests and other forms of competitive sports under normal conditions. To make this possible the gymnasium should contain a large exhibition and exercise hall with a maximum amount of playing space for basketball and all other sports.

6. Furnish the University a large assembly room with a seating capacity of more than twenty-five hundred people for important gatherings such as Commencement Exercises, Leadership Week convocations, etc.
